
Les dossiers de l'enseignement scolaire ■ L'enseignement scolaire en France ■ Direction générale de l'enseignement scolaire ■ Département des relations européennes et internationales ■ Ministère de l'éducation nationale ■ Contact : dgesco.dei@education.gouv.fr ■ octobre 2012 ■ Conception graphique : Délégation à la communication ■ Photographies : Joan Bardeletti, Bruno Fert, Sophie Brändström, Patrick Gaillardin, Xavier Schwebel/Picturetank - Philippe Devernay/MEN ■ Impression : MEN - 2 200 exemplaires

eduscol.education.fr/dossiers

DOSSIERS DE
L'ENSEIGNEMENT
SCOLAIRE

L'enseignement scolaire en France

2012

EDUSCOL.
EDUCATION.FR/
DOSSIERS

the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in many countries (Murray & Lopez, 1996).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental illness. The World Health Organization (WHO) has developed the concept of 'recovery' as a goal for mental health care. Recovery is defined as a process of change through which individuals with mental illness realize their own goals, interests and aspirations, and to develop and use their own strengths, to move beyond their disabilities and to move toward the future with hope and meaning (Recovery Institute, 1998).

Recovery is a process, not a goal. It is a personal journey that is unique to each individual. Recovery is not a linear process, and it is not always possible for everyone. However, recovery is a goal that is worth striving for, and it is a goal that can be achieved through a variety of means.

Recovery is a process that involves a number of factors, including: (1) a diagnosis of mental illness; (2) a commitment to recovery; (3) a support system; (4) access to services; (5) a safe and stable environment; (6) a sense of purpose and meaning; (7) a sense of control; (8) a sense of hope; (9) a sense of belonging; and (10) a sense of self-worth.

Recovery is a process that is ongoing and lifelong. It is a process that is unique to each individual, and it is a process that can be achieved through a variety of means. Recovery is a goal that is worth striving for, and it is a goal that can be achieved through a variety of means.

Recovery is a process that involves a number of factors, including: (1) a diagnosis of mental illness; (2) a commitment to recovery; (3) a support system; (4) access to services; (5) a safe and stable environment; (6) a sense of purpose and meaning; (7) a sense of control; (8) a sense of hope; (9) a sense of belonging; and (10) a sense of self-worth.

Recovery is a process that is ongoing and lifelong. It is a process that is unique to each individual, and it is a process that can be achieved through a variety of means. Recovery is a goal that is worth striving for, and it is a goal that can be achieved through a variety of means.

Recovery is a process that involves a number of factors, including: (1) a diagnosis of mental illness; (2) a commitment to recovery; (3) a support system; (4) access to services; (5) a safe and stable environment; (6) a sense of purpose and meaning; (7) a sense of control; (8) a sense of hope; (9) a sense of belonging; and (10) a sense of self-worth.

Recovery is a process that is ongoing and lifelong. It is a process that is unique to each individual, and it is a process that can be achieved through a variety of means.

Recovery is a process that involves a number of factors, including: (1) a diagnosis of mental illness; (2) a commitment to recovery; (3) a support system; (4) access to services; (5) a safe and stable environment; (6) a sense of purpose and meaning; (7) a sense of control; (8) a sense of hope; (9) a sense of belonging; and (10) a sense of self-worth.

Recovery is a process that is ongoing and lifelong. It is a process that is unique to each individual, and it is a process that can be achieved through a variety of means. Recovery is a goal that is worth striving for, and it is a goal that can be achieved through a variety of means.

Recovery is a process that involves a number of factors, including: (1) a diagnosis of mental illness; (2) a commitment to recovery; (3) a support system; (4) access to services; (5) a safe and stable environment; (6) a sense of purpose and meaning; (7) a sense of control; (8) a sense of hope; (9) a sense of belonging; and (10) a sense of self-worth.

Recovery is a process that is ongoing and lifelong. It is a process that is unique to each individual, and it is a process that can be achieved through a variety of means. Recovery is a goal that is worth striving for, and it is a goal that can be achieved through a variety of means.

Recovery is a process that involves a number of factors, including: (1) a diagnosis of mental illness; (2) a commitment to recovery; (3) a support system; (4) access to services; (5) a safe and stable environment; (6) a sense of purpose and meaning; (7) a sense of control; (8) a sense of hope; (9) a sense of belonging; and (10) a sense of self-worth.

Recovery is a process that is ongoing and lifelong. It is a process that is unique to each individual, and it is a process that can be achieved through a variety of means. Recovery is a goal that is worth striving for, and it is a goal that can be achieved through a variety of means.

Recovery is a process that involves a number of factors, including: (1) a diagnosis of mental illness; (2) a commitment to recovery; (3) a support system; (4) access to services; (5) a safe and stable environment; (6) a sense of purpose and meaning; (7) a sense of control; (8) a sense of hope; (9) a sense of belonging; and (10) a sense of self-worth.